

Harding is Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar for 2007-08

Sandra Harding, Professor in the School of Education and Information Studies and in the Department of Women's Studies, is a Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar for 2007-08. The Visiting Scholar Program makes available every year 12 or 13 distinguished scholars who visit more than a hundred colleges and universities and spend two days at each one, meeting informally with students and faculty members, taking part in classroom discussions, and giving a public lecture open to the entire academic community. The visits are designed primarily for undergraduate participation. The purpose of the program is to contribute to the intellectual life of the campus by making possible an exchange of ideas between the Visiting Scholars and the resident faculty and students.

Harding was director of the Center for the Study of Women from 1996 to 2000. A philosopher of science, she taught at the University of Delaware, from 1976 to 1996, before joining the faculty at UCLA. She co-edited the journal Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society from 2000 to 2005. Her books include Science and Social Inequality; Is Science Multicultural? Postcolonialisms, Feminisms and Epistemologies; Whose Science? Whose Knowledge?; and The Science Question in Feminism. Her most recent is entitled Sciences from Below: Gender, Imperialism, and Modernity.

She has been a consultant to several United Nations organizations, including the Pan American Health Organization, UNESCO, the U.N. Development Fund for Women, and the U.N. Commission on Science and Technology for Development. She was a visiting professor at the University of Amsterdam, the University of Costa Rica, the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology, and the Asian Institute of Technology.
